and carried great clusters of white carnations looped with green. With them came the groomsmen, Messrs. W. H. Wood, Robert Miller, of Rappahannock county; Waiter Smith, R. L. Montague, of Richmond, Va.; and Walter Hubard and Ashby Adams, of Blackstone—
Next came the maid of honor, Miss Maggie Ewing, sister of the bride, in gown of white mousseline, over satin, carrying carnations and maiden-hair ferns. She immediately preceded the bride, who entered on the arm of her brother, Mr. H. Howard Ewing, gowned in a most exquisite creation of real lace over mousseline and taffeta, the clinging folds of her filmy veil caught with a diamond sunburst, bringing out all the fairness of her blonde beauty. Miss Ewing was blonde beauty. Miss Ewing was of her blonde leadity. Miss Ewing was a lovely vision of youth and sweetness and beauty, as bearing a magnificent bouquet of Bride roses and illes of the valley, she advanced to the altar to meet her affianced husband. Mr. Miller was attended by his best man, Mr. Frank Jones, of Rappahannock county.

After the beautiful and impressive ring ceremony of the Methodist Episcopal church, the bridal party, with these two 'mowly linked in one heavenly tie," retired from the church to the music of the ever-beautiful Lohengrin's bridal linmediately after the ceremony a wed

During this conversation I showed Mr. Gibert a letter addressed to me by Mr. W. T. Paxton, of Buena Vista, in which he states that Mr. Gilbert was a candidate for local office in that city, in answer to which Mr. Gifbert replied, "That is false; I was never a candidate for city office." I told nim if that was so Mr. Paxton was doing him a great injustice, and I would see that the mistake was corrected at once. Magazine Writers and the People.

Magazine writers who make a specialty of assaulting patent medicines are liable to shut their eyes against this kind of literature coming from the people. But, the people are always inclined to listen to practical proofs uttered by practical people versus theoretical writers, who know but little of the great masses and their needs.
